

Enterprise remains committed to ensuring everyone can stay in their homes, including residents of manufactured housing communities. In response to concerns about challenges in the manufactured housing sector, we have engaged in local, state, and federal advocacy to better protect manufactured home residents; we have committed investments and grants to supporting manufactured home communities; and we have worked with federal partners to strengthen resident protections.

Under our current leadership, Enterprise has used its ownership position to review and strengthen Bellwether's underwriting standards to go above and beyond GSE-mandated tenant site lease protections for manufactured housing communities. We will continue to engage with advocates, investors, and government partners to support this critical part of the affordable housing landscape.
